

NAECP Winter 2012 Conference Schedule February 27 – 29, 2012 New Orleans, LA

The Importance of Building Trust in ECP Programs

The foundation of all Employee Concern Programs is credibility and the trust that employees and managers have in the integrity of the ECP program, its processes, and the ECP program personnel. Nothing is more important to the ability of an ECP program to serve as an alternative avenue for the workforce to raise concerns that may have an impact on protecting the health and safety of the workforce, the public, and protecting the environment. The theme for this NAECP conference is to highlight those programs, processes and behaviors that have increased confidence and trust in ECP programs and to discuss circumstances which have eroded confidence in programs. The agenda will focus on themes of building trust, restoring confidence, and building relationships that enable an ECP program to be an integral part of the safety leadership of each company.
